Chief Russian Delegates at the Genoa Conference

IT was thought by the allied Governments of Europe that the invitation to the Soviet Government of Russia to participate in the Genoa Conference was in the nature of a concession. It seems to have been interpreted otherwise by the Russian delegates, however, for their arrogance and truculence have been the outstanding features of the conference. Some of them openly declared that they came to the conference as victors and expected to take back to Russia two hundred billions of allied gold. Such pretensions, of course, would be laughable and regarded as the vaporings of children were it not that they have introduced an element of discord into the conference that threatened to disrupt it. Tchitcherin has several times tried to introduce the question of disarmament, which had been already barred by the agenda of the conference. Had it not been for the herculean efforts of Lloyd George, the gathering would doubtless already have dissolved.

UPON the outcome of the Genoa Conference will depend the fate of Europe for years to come and possibly for a generation. The conference was called primarily to seek a remedy for the economic recovery of Europe, and the agenda prepared in advance carefully excluded from its scope certain political questions such as those bearing on disarmament and reparations and the revision of the Versailles Treaty. From the beginning, however, it was evident that it would be extremely difficult to adhere to the program marked out. The Russian delegates threw a bombshell into the gathering when it sought to bring up the question of disarmament, and the irritation that this created was

Now Seeking to Bring About Economic Recovery of Europe

WALTER RATHENAU

One of the most influential of the German delegates to Genoa. Together with Chancellor Wirth, he carried on negotiations that led to signing of German-Russian treaty.

LEONID KRASSIN

Russian delegate who for several years past has represented the Soviet Government in the attempt to negotiate trade treaties with various countries.

OPENING SESSION OF GENOA CONFERENCE

First gathering at the Giorgio Palace of representatives of the nations of Europe assembled to find, if possible, a remedy for the economic distress that the Old World is suffering from as an aftermath of the war. The session was held on April 10. Premier Facta of Italy (indicated by circle) presided and is seen delivering the opening address, which was a plea for amity and moderation.

increased by the silly and disingenuous claims for damages from the Allies because of the support extended by them to Kolchak, Wrangel and Denikin. Of far greater importance, however, was the announcement made of the treaty concluded between Germany and Russia at the conference. This was denounced by the allied powers as an act of bad faith and as infringing on the terms of the Versailles Treaty. Its immediate effect was to create a political and possibly a military alignment between the former Allies on the one hand and Russia and Germany on the other. Efforts were made by persuasion and to some extent by threat to secure an annulment of the treaty, but were unavailing.

This invention, used in connection with a camera, enables one to use higher magnification than is usually employed with the regular microscope or camera without losing definition. World's Largest Passenger Vessel on Her Maiden Voyage

BY the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, not only the bulk of Germany's navy, but an immense portion of her merchant shipping was to be turned over to the Allies. Among these was the steamer Bismarck, the largest vessel projected in the world, that was then in process of construction in Hamburg. She has since then been completed, delivered to the British Government and turned over to the White Star Line, by which she has been renamed the Majestic. She is 945 feet long, 104 feet wide, 247 feet high from keel to top, and has a displacement of 52,500 tons. Each of her funnels has a diameter of 19½ feet.

The Majestic, formerly the Bismarck, leaving the River Elbe for her new home in England. She was relinquished to that country by Germany, in accordance with the provisions of the Peace Treaty. She is larger than the Leviathan or the Imperator, and hence ranks as the largest in existence.

An Architect, A Painter and A Sculptress Joined in Designing This Exquisite Lamp

The lines, proportions and coloring of most of the lamps you see in these days of commercialism are the work of designing departments of large factories. They are the fruits of a deep knowledge of what makes a "popular seller." But some people, the Decorative Arts League committee felt sure, would like a lamp designed purely with an eye to good taste, a lamp of artistic proportions and harmonious tones, a lamp embodying grace, symmetry and beauty rather than the long experience of the "salesman designer" of what seems most in demand in retail stores.

Hence this exquisite little lamp you see pictured, "Aurora" as it has been named by an artist, because of the purity of its Greek lines and tones.

A Labor of Love

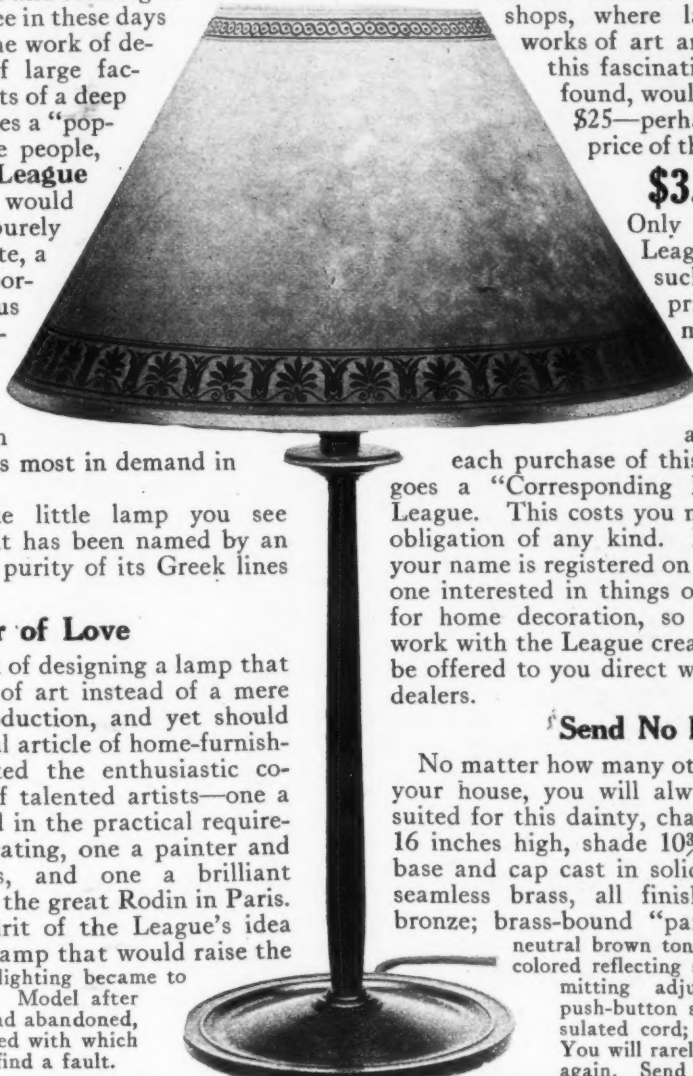

For the delicate work of designing a lamp that should be a real work of art instead of a mere unit in a factory's production, and yet should be a practical and useful article of home-furnishing, the League enlisted the enthusiastic cooperation of a group of talented artists—one a famous architect skilled in the practical requirements of interior decorating, one a painter and genius in color-effects, and one a brilliant sculptress, a student of the great Rodin in Paris.

They caught the spirit of the League's idea and the designing of a lamp that would raise the artistic standards of home-lighting became to them a true labor of love. Model after model was made, studied and abandoned, until at last a design emerged with which not one of the three could find a fault.

Every Detail Perfect

One style of ornamentation after another was tried out, only to yield in the end to the perfect simplicity of the classic Greek lines. Even such a small detail as the exact contour of the base was worked over and over again until it should blend in one continuous "stream" with the lines of the slender shaft. The graceful curves of the shaft itself, simple as they seem in the finished model, were the results of dozens of trials. The shape, the exact size, and the soft coloring of the shade were the product of many experiments.

The result is a masterpiece of Greek simplicity and balance. Not a thing could be added or taken away without marring the general effect—not the sixty-fourth of an inch difference in any moulding or curve but would be harmful. And yet with all the attention to artistic effect the practical knowledge of an experienced interior decorator has kept "Aurora" in perfect harmony with the actual requirements of the home. It blends with any style of furnishing, it adapts itself to boudoir or foyer-hall, to library or living room. And wherever you place it "Aurora" will add taste and refinement besides furnishing, with its tiltable shade, a thoroughly practical and mellow light wherever required.

"AURORA"
$3.50

In the exclusive Fifth Avenue type of shops, where lamps that are also works of art are shown, the equal of this fascinating little "Aurora," if found, would cost you from $15 to $25—perhaps more. Yet the price of this lamp is but

$3.50—Think of It!

Only the Decorative Arts League could bring out such a lamp at such a price. And only as a means of widening its circle of usefulness could even the League make such an offer. But with each purchase of this beautiful little lamp goes a "Corresponding Membership" in the League. This costs you nothing and entails no obligation of any kind. It simply means that your name is registered on the League's books as one interested in things of real beauty and art for home decoration, so that as Artists who work with the League create new ideas they can be offered to you direct without dependence on dealers.

Send No Money

No matter how many other lamps you have in your house, you will always find a place just suited for this dainty, charming little "Aurora" 16 inches high, shade 10 3/4 inches in diameter; base and cap cast in solid Medallium, shaft of seamless brass, all finished in rich statuary bronze; brass-bound "parchment" shade of a neutral brown tone outside and an old rose colored reflecting surface; shade holder permitting adjustment to any angle; push-button socket; six feet of silk insulated cord; 2-piece attachment plug. You will rarely, if ever, get such a value again. Send no money—simply sign and mail the coupon, then pay the postman $3.50 plus the amount of parcel-post stamps on the package. Weight of lamp shipped is only five pounds, so postage even to furthest points is insignificant. If you should not find the lamp all we say of it, or all you expected of it, send it back in five days and your money will be refunded in full. Clip the coupon now, and mail to Decorative Arts League, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Decorative Arts League (175 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.)

You may send me, at the member's special price, an "Aurora" Lamp, and I will pay the postman $3.50 plus the postage, when delivered. If not satisfactory I can return the lamp within five days of receipt and you are to refund my money in full.

You may enter my name as a "Corresponding Member" of the Decorative Arts League, it being distinctly understood that such membership is to cost me nothing, either now or later, and is to entail no obligation of any kind. It simply registers me as one interested in hearing of really artistic new things for home decorations. (T.P.1)

Burial of the Unknown Soldier and The Arms Conference

Two outstanding events in American history in 1921 were: the solemn ceremony attending the burial of the Unknown Soldier and the convocation and proceedings of the Arms Conference at Washington. These will be perpetual memorials in American history.

The issues of the Mid-Week Pictorial describing these events in pictures were quickly sold out. The demand was so great that the pictures were collected and are now bound in a book of 74 pages. This is indeed a memorial worth preserving. It is not to be sold, but used only in connection with subscriptions.

Any one sending the attached coupon will receive the Memorial Portfolio entirely free of cost, delivery paid by us.

Shopping in Cantilever Shoes is a Joy

THE pleasure of shopping can be spoiled by wearing uncomfortable shoes. But in comfortable Cantilever Shoes, shopping is a real delight.

Many of the fresh, happy faces you see in the stores nowadays are due to comfortable shoes. One can be on one's feet all day in smart Cantilevers and then feel like dancing "half the night."

The arch of Cantilever Shoes is flexible, like the foot. It is not made rigid by a metal "shank-piece" such as is concealed in the arch of all ordinary shoes. The shape follows the natural lines of the foot. When you walk, your feet feel light and free; the flexible, snug-fitting shank supports the foot without restraining its natural action. Good circulation is permitted and the arch muscles exercise, which keeps the foot strong and well. Thus are weak arches benefited.

Cantilever heels of the right height permit correct posture. High French heels tilt the body out of balance, causing harmful pressure on some of the internal organs, which often results in headache, backache and other unhappy conditions.

Cantilever Shoes are not only good-looking, but they encourage better health and a happier spirit—both of which improve a woman's appearance and add to her natural charm. You will be fitted carefully at the nearest Cantilever store.

If no dealer listed at the right is near you, the Manufacturers, Morse & Burt Co., 11 Carlton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., will mail you the Cantilever Shoe Booklet and the address of a near-by dealer.
